

100 Most Influential Real Estate Leaders

« Previous

Next »

Brokerages, Franchisors, Brokerage Organizations

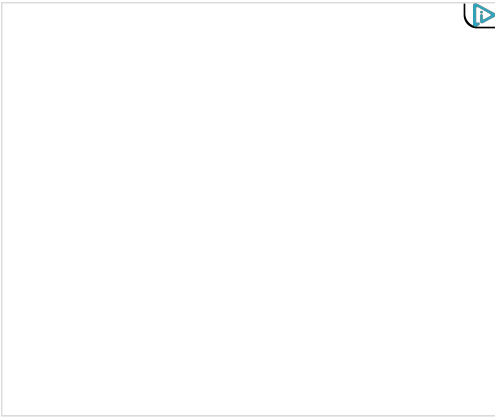

Vanessa Bergmark

General Manager and Partner
Red Oak Realty

Vanessa Bergmark says she fell in love with real estate when she bought her first house and decided to become an agent at a large real estate firm in the San Francisco Bay Area. After moving into management and overseeing an office of agents, in 2007 Bergmark accepted an offer to run Red Oak Realty, an "intensely local company." She and her business partner took an ownership stake in the company. A Penn State graduate, Bergmark is also certified in conflict resolution, which she says comes in handy in real estate transactions.

Twitter: @vbreoak

What People are Sharing:

• 1

Survey shows most desired home features

NAR: Buyers rank central air conditioning, cable TV, Internet tops. Of all the compromises homebuyers are willing to make when it comes to features, the two features they seem either least willing ...

• 2

Despite improved market, not all sellers are smiling

Inflation, credit and cash-outs could undermine housing affordability. 2012 was the best year for home sales since 2007. The inventory of homes for sale dropped, helping to stabilize the

Powered by MarketShare This

Categories of 100 Leaders:

- Brokerages, Franchisors, Brokerage Organizations
- Economists, Academics and Consultants
- Government
- Industry trade groups, MLSs
- Media, Blogging, Social Media, Marketing
- Mortgage, Title, Ancillary Services
- Technology

© 2013 Inman News®